Exploring Central Ohio's Wealth of Libraries

Cbus Libraries is an award-winning, local nonprofit that uplifts communities through literature and supporting the library profession. Our impact includes:

- Gifted 6,000+ books to the community
- Raised nearly $2,000 in scholarship funds for future librarians from marginalized communities
- Hosted and promoted hundreds of events with regionally and nationally recognized authors and illustrators
- Featured over 50 libraries and library professionals
- Built seven little free libraries that spotlight local luminaries like Jerrie Mock & John T. Ward
- Recognized by dozens of national and regional organizations, including the American Association of School Librarians (AASL), Ohio Educational Library Media Association (OELMA), Ohio Arts Council, United Way of Central Ohio, King Arts Complex, Greater Columbus Arts Council and more.

We welcome corporate and community sponsors to partner in our mission to champion Central Ohio libraries, librarians and the love of reading. We raise funds in 3 key areas:

- New books to be gifted to the Central Ohio community
- Scholarship funds for historically marginalized individuals pursuing a master's degree in library science
- Murals and events that celebrate literary creators connected to Central Ohio

Opportunities include:

- Special events, including socials with special author guests
- Library features that reach nearly 10,000 followers worldwide
- Recognition bookplates
- Dynamic and static website recognition
- Custom campaigns
